BIO

Robert Green is a passionate and enthusiastic musician, dancer, teacher, and choreographer from Raleigh, NC. Robert got his start in the Arts by way of music, playing violin for 12 years. In this time Robert received many prestigious awards for violin performance which landed him on scholarship at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, double majoring in Music and Dance. After traveling and simultaneously training in Hip-Hop, Ballet, and Jazz, Robert got noticed by some of the industry's top choreographers. Robert went on to travel the country assisting industry legends such as Laurianne Gibson, Brian Friedman, Tabitha & Napoleon D'Umo, and many more. In 2013, Robert followed his heart and took a giant leap of faith by moving out to Los Angeles to pursue an entirely new career in the dance industry.

In 2015, Robert was one of 12 men selected to dance around the globe on Taylor Swift's record-breaking "1989" World Tour. Robert broke the internet by sharing the viral video of the tear-jerking phone call to his mother, breaking the good news. He has since danced for the industry's top artists including Justin Timberlake, Selena Gomez, The Weeknd,

Mary J. Blige, Ricky Martin, Pitbull, Ellie Goulding, as well as the chance to choreograph for Charli XCX, Tove Lo, and most recently Tamta.

Robert also teaches around the globe, and has taught classes and workshops in London, Russia, France, and China. He regularly teaches at two of the most popular dance conventions in the U.S., Monsters of Hip-Hop and The Pulse, where he uses his extensive musical background to enhance his student's musicality, stage presence, and star quality. Robert looks forward to gr he uses his extensive musical background to enhance his student's musicality, stage presence, and star quality. Robert looks forward to growing and sharing his passions with as many artists as possible!
